About the Artist

From a young age, Vincent Kamp has been enamoured by storytelling. Initially drawn to cartoons and their narrative scenes, his practice has evolved towards the dramatic lighting of cinematographers like Roger Deakins and the masterful works of Caravaggio and Rembrandt.

Rooted in high-stake scenarios, Vincent's work thrives on tension and drama, reflecting his fascination with the unpredictable. His paintings transport viewers into worlds filled with adrenaline-pumping excitement, offering an escape from the ordinary into the realm of imagination and intrigue.

"Where I start really is with an idea for a story. And at that point I start making notes and little sketches and things about the kind of characters that might feature in that story."
